

Anti-Red Chinese Fighting in Tibet

Peiping Says
Revolt Ends
Near Lhasa

Tokyo.—Red China disclosed today that anti-communist Chinese were fighting beside Tibetan rebels and admitted the revolt was still seething in the Himalayan kingdom.

Peiping radio claimed only that the uprising had been crushed in the area of Lhasa, the Tibetan capital, and said red troops were "now proceeding successfully to put down the armed rebellion in other places."

The Chinese nationalist government on Formosa said about 100,000 Tibetan nomads—sword-wielding Goloks—had joined the revolt in the north.

The Peiping broadcast said the large quantity of arms seized in fighting the Tibetan rebels proved that they were helped by anti-communist Chinese still fighting in the old Sikang province of China.

Mountain Region
Sikang borders Tibet in the southwest along the Yangtze river—a wild, mountainous region which ranges sharply up to 24,900 feet and separated by canyon-like gorges.

The disclosure that the Sikang rebels—possibly remnants of Chiang Kai-shek's army on the mainland—were taking part in the Tibetan rebellion came in a report to the Chinese communist central committee.

Chang Kuo-hua, one of the top Red Chinese experts in trying to convert Tibet to communism, was quoted as saying "the upper strata of reactionaries in Tibet are closely linked with the rebels in the former Sikang province now part of red Szechwan."

Support for Rebels
Chang said the fugitive Dalai Lama's former government in Tibet "came out more and more blatantly to support, supply and arm the rebels when part of the remnant rebels from the former Sikang province fled to Tibet."

His report—as broadcast by Peiping radio—did not say when the Sikang rebels fled.

A week ago nationalist China's official Central Daily News of Taipei, Formosa, said 10,000 Chinese communist troops revolted in Sikang province in March and joined the Khamba Tibetan rebels. The report was attributed to an unidentified source in Hona Kung.

Red China has replaced the Dalai Lama's Tibetan government with a puppet regime under the Panchen Lama but the communists have carefully refrained from making any personal attack on the fugitive god-king.

The flight to India of the 23-year-old Dalai Lama, revered by Buddhists as "the Living Buddha" has stirred strong religious feelings in Asia against red China.

In New Delhi, Indian foreign ministry sources said the Dalai Lama is expected to reach Bomdila in northeast India on Monday.

The royal Tibetan party of refugees traveling on horseback through wild Indian mountain country will be met there by Prime Minister Nehru's special envoy P. N. Moon—and a jeep.

Kennedy Predicts Labor Reform Bill

Tells Janesville Audience Vote Will Show Where People Stand

BY JAMES BARTELT
Post-Crescent News Service

Janesville.—Sen. John Kennedy predicted here Friday night that a labor-management reform bill will be passed by this session of congress and that the vote will show who is interested in reform and who is interested merely in keeping a political issue alive.

Evil Practices
Kennedy described the objectives of the reform bill he supports in an address here which concluded a day of campaigning in Milwaukee, Sheboygan, and Beloit. Kennedy is a member of the senate committee investigating labor-management affairs.

"I cannot say that the Kennedy-Ervin bill or any law under our constitution can eliminate Jimmy Hoffa. He is entitled to the same rights as every other citizen, including the protection of the fifth amendment and trial by jury. "But we can eliminate the evil practices by which he and his associates rose to power, their conflict of interest transactions, their destruction of union books, their manipulation of trusteeships, their rigged elections and conventions, their appointments of ex-convicts as union officials and their use of management middle men," Kennedy said.

Earlier in the day at a press conference in Sheboygan, Kennedy also supported reform provisions to wipe out the backlog of cases without decisions before the National Labor Relations board. The question was raised because of hearings during the 5-year-old Kohler strike.

Students at Beloit college brought the first detailed discussion by Kennedy on his religion, and a possible presi-

No Charges Filed in Fatal Shooting by Boy

Milwaukee.—A 17-year-old Wauwatosa boy who shot and killed a private detective who was hooking up a wiretap in his family garage was released Friday in custody of his mother.

Judge John J. Kenney of children's court said he would decide Pagenkopf next week whether to take jurisdiction in the case of Charles Pagenkopf—who fired a fatal shotgun blast that killed Carl Wesley, 27, an employee of a private agency retained by counsel for the boy's father.

Dist. Atty. William J. Mc-

Cauley said that he planned no charges against the boy who, with his mother, surprised Wesley while he was setting up the wiretap Thursday night. Wesley ran when the mother screamed and the boy shot him but said he could not remember pulling the trigger.

Dist. Judge Frank E. Gregorski Friday fined two men who admitted they helped Wesley set up the wiretap $250 each after they pleaded guilty to acting as private detectives without licenses.

Fined were Alfred E. Feuste and William C. Weissbrodt, both 21, who admitted they were in Wesley's automobile, parked near the Pagenkopf home when Wesley was shot. A 17-year-old girl who also was in the car was not held.

Complete Quiz On Racketeering

Washington.—A special government task force against organized crime, having completed a year-long study of nationwide racketeering, is now moving into the action stage with an expanded staff.

This was announced yesterday by Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers. He said "the full weight of federal law enforcement is now being concentrated on syndicated criminal operations." He indicated a sharp increase in prosecutions against top racketeers.

Deny Sending Armed Kurds Into Iraq

London.—The Soviet Union today officially denied reports it is pouring hundreds of armed Kurdish volunteers into Iraq.

The Soviet news agency Tass said it had been authorized to state the reports are "a complete invention." Tass declared nearly a thousand Kurds who passed through the Suez canal Monday aboard the Soviet ship Gruzia were being repatriated to Iraq.

Short Tests For Astronauts At Space Edge

One of Seven to Be Chosen to Orbit Around World

Washington.—U.S. America's seven Mercury astronauts will take comparatively short test hops to the edge of space before one of them is chosen for a shoot around the world.

The National Aeronautics and Space administration said yesterday the test hops—called sub-orbital flights—will shoot the men 20 to 25 miles up from the Cape Canaveral, Fla., rocket range.

Their man-carrying capsules, propelled by army Redstone rockets, will come down perhaps 100 miles away near the Bahama islands. Plans call for the capsules to come down by parachute and be recovered by boats stationed in the landing area. The distances involved are still tentative guesses.

One to Be Chosen
Only one man will be chosen for the first attempt at the big flight, which will shoot him into orbit around the earth at a height of 100 to 150 miles, possibly sometime in 1961. He'll complete a circuit of the earth about once every 90 minutes, orbiting at 18,000 miles an hour.

The reactions of the seven on the preliminary test flights may play a part in which man is selected. They all say they want to be first.

The Redstone rocket is 62 feet long and generates 75,000 pounds of thrust. Used as the first stage of the 4-stage Jupiter-C rocket, it provided more than 98 per cent of the total thrust required to put the explorer satellites in orbit.

A spokesman for Chrysler corporation, which makes the Redstone, said he couldn't estimate just how high or fast the Redstone would go when used alone as a man-carrying vehicle.

In a somewhat comparable vehicle, the 3-stage Vanguard, the first stage shoots the rocket to a height of 33 miles in 2 minutes and 20 seconds, and accelerates it to 3,700 miles an hour. The Vanguard first stage travels about 275 miles before it returns to earth.

Senate Approves Johnson Plan For Job Survey

Washington.—The senate has swung behind Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson's proposal to establish an 11-man commission to investigate unemployment.

The vote was unanimous. In a bit of fancy political footwork, Johnson lined himself up on the side of the unemployed by broaching his proposal Wednesday at a mass AFL-CIO rally here aimed at focusing attention on unemployment. The jobless total still tops four million in spite of gains during the month of March.

Johnson's close liaison with fellow-Texasan Sam Rayburn, Democratic speaker of the house, indicates similar house approval. It probably would be embarrassing for President Eisenhower to veto such a bill.

In putting the resolution before the senate, Johnson said it "seeks to bring before the congress and public at the earliest possible moment the facts of unemployment. And since we must act upon those facts, there should be as little delay as possible in bringing them forth."

Johnson's resolution calls for three of the commission's 11 members to be named by the house speaker, three by the president of the senate (Vice President Nixon) and five by President Eisenhower.

Saw Suspect Flee in Car After Bank Holdup

St. Paul.—An FBI agent from Wisconsin testified Friday he saw James Darland, 38, of Marinette, Wis., in the getaway car used in last summer's robbery of a St. Paul bank 12 hours after the holdup.

Darland is being tried in U. S. District court for perjury for allegedly giving false testimony in the trial of his brother, Robert, now serving 15 years for the $3,059 holdup of the Hillcrest State bank here June 19, 1958.

Edward Converse, an FBI agent stationed at Green Bay, Wis., told the jury he saw James in the getaway car with Robert at Marinette at midnight, a dozen hours after the holdup.

GOP Picks Chicago; Convention July 25

Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, right, wife of Sen. John F. Kennedy, receives an honorary membership in the newly-formed women's auxiliary of the Milwaukee Press club at a dinner in Milwaukee. The award was made by Mrs. Austin Bealmear, left, auxiliary president, as Gov. Gaylord Nelson looks on.

Morton to Be Named Chairman

Washington.—Repulicans today picked Chicago for their 1960 national convention starting July 25.

The GOP National committee acted speedily and without debate on the recommendation of a site committee that selected Chicago over five other cities.

Richard Cooper of New Hampshire, a member of the site committee offered the resolution. It was seconded by Edward S. Shattuck of California.

The Democrats have picked Los Angeles for their national convention starting July 11.

In addition to making the final decision on the convention site, the Republican national committee later today will select a new chairman to succeed Meade Alcorn who resigned.

Sen. Thruston Morton of Kentucky, who has presidential approval, was expected to be picked.

Chicago Offer
Ray C. Bliss, Ohio state chairman and head of the Republican site committee, announced his group's selection of Chicago. He said the convention will meet in the International amphitheater.

Bliss said there was some sentiment for an August convention, but the site group finally concluded that Chicago's auditorium and hotel facilities offset the date factor.

Chicago had limited its bid of $400,000 cash plus a free hall and other benefits to a July 25 meeting date because the amphitheater was committed to another convention in August.

Chicago won over Philadelphia, New York, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Miami Beach.

Bliss said the site group picked Chicago for several reasons. One, he said, is that Chicago is a "neutral area" as far as Republican presidential nomination possibilities are concerned.

Predict Victory
He said the only other neutral areas among the bidders were Philadelphia and Miami Beach. Bliss said New York and the two California cities were not regarded as neutral areas because Vice President Richard M. Nixon of California and New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller are prospective candidates for the nomination.

A Republican victory in 1960 was predicted last night by President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon.

Eisenhower sent a message to the Republican national committee meeting here from his Georgia vacation headquarters. He said such a victory will be assured "if we stand resolutely for, and work energetically to implement, those fundamentals in which we believe as Republicans."

The president told the committee the nation supports a balanced budget.

Nixon told a banquet audience it is not enough for Republicans to believe in balanced budgets and private enterprise. A sure candidate for the party's 1960 presidential nomination, the vice president won a standing ovation from the national committee members.

Bloomer.—A 51-year-old woman whose nude, bullet-pierced body was found on a davenport in her home Thursday night, apparently was slain by a sex deviate.

Eugene Jack, son said today. The victim, Mrs. Vyron, was the wife of a union business agent. Her husband found the body when he returned to their Marsh Miller Lake cottage from a union meeting in Eau Claire.

The district attorney ruled out robbery as a motive but said that the circumstances indicated a sex crime despite the fact that a preliminary examination indicated the woman had not been raped.

Mrs. Martin's clothing, some of it bloodstained, was piled on the davenport at her feet. She had been shot in the head above the left eyebrow. Jewelry and money in the house was undisturbed.

Authorities of Chippewa county were looking for a 1953 light green Mercury automobile that was seen parked in front of the Martin home about 7 p.m. Thursday.

Body of Sainted Pope Pius X Returns to His Native Venice

BY FRANK BRUTTO

Vatican City.—P. Giuseppe Sarto, once the patriarch of Venice, today keeps a promise made half a century ago to return to his beloved city of canals.

He returns in death as the sainted Pope Pius X of the Roman Catholic church.

Pope John to Pray
His remains, clothed in papal robes and wearing a silver mask, will travel out of the Vatican's own railroad station.

The body of Saint Pius X will lie in its artistic crystal casket, placed in a railroad coach that has been transformed into a chapel.

It will be accompanied by canons of St. Peter's basilica, to which it eventually will be returned after the historic trip to Venice.

Before the train pulls out of the Vatican station Pope John XXIII will board the chapel coach to pray before the body of his predecessor.

An ovation awaits the dead pontiff upon his arrival in Venice tomorrow.

The return of their former patriarch, even though in death and for only a brief period, has been eagerly sought by the Venetians ever since the pontiff was beatified and later canonized on May 30, 1954.

When Giuseppe Cardinal Sarto left Venice in 1903 to attend a papal conclave he assured his parishioners that he would return quickly.

None was more surprised than he when the conclave elected him pope. He never returned to Venice.

He became known as the "Papa Santo"—the saintly pope. Saddened by the outbreak of World War I, he died Aug. 20, 1914, the day the German army occupied Brussels.

To Arrive Sunday
Pope John XXIII, after he has briefly stayed before the body of St. Pius will leave the coach and take his place on a temporary throne on the station platform.

Then, the special train will pull out of the station. It will make brief halts at Florence and Bologna and will arrive at Venice early Sunday.

State Won't Back Airline Position

Wants Federal Order Upheld, County Told

Madison — The state aeronautics commission Friday rejected a plea that the state intervene to support interim air service at Outagamie county airport.

The commission said it would do everything in its power to make North Central Airlines obey the original order of the federal civil aeronautics board.

The commission position is the same as that of Congressman John W. Byrnes, who earlier this week in a letter to Gordon A. Bubolz, Appleton businessman, said Appleton air service leaders were hurting their long-range chances by supporting North Central's request for an interim route while the airline tested the original order in court.

Doesn't Want Wait

The Appleton delegation which pleaded Friday with the commission made it clear it wants air service at the earliest possible date and doesn't want to wait one, two or three years while the court case is settled.

(The original CAB order specified a Minneapolis - Eau Claire - Marshfield - Appleton-Milwaukee-Chicago route. North Central, in separate actions, asks approval for two alternatives, both including Minneapolis. Green Bay, Appleton, Milwaukee and Chicago, but with other stops that exclude Eau Claire and Marshfield.)

Commissioners said they already have intervened in the federal court against the airline's appeal of the original order and that backing the proposal for special interim service to Appleton might appear inconsistent.

Dr. A. J. Sell, Ashland commissioner, said he fears splitting the Wisconsin cities in the Seven States Area case will hurt the air service campaign. Ashland, he said, also wants North Central stops to replace steadily declining rail and bus service.

Commissioners hinted they agree with Byrnes' contention that North Central's suggestions of interim routes are maneuvers intended to tangle the original service case.

Set April 27 Session

Some members of the Appleton delegation appeared disappointed, but Karl P. Baldwin, the spokesman, said he wanted it made clear his group doesn't want to be judged a pressure group. It only wants early air service. The commission pointed out the belief of CAB Chairman James Durfee that the airline has a legal obligation to conform to the original order. It also could institute Appleton - Milwaukee-Chicago service if it wants to, it was said.

Since Durfee indicated the CAB will rule on the interim requests before April 26, the state commission said it would hold a special session April 27 to consider what measures it can take to press for service to Appleton and the other communities.

Nurses Begin Survey to Aid Civil Defense

Questionnaire Sent To 585 Persons to Test Availability

Kaukauna — Members of the Wisconsin Nurses association committee on civil defense have undertaken a survey to determine the number of professional nurses available in the area in event of a national disaster.

The committee, composed of Mrs. Hazel Leedke, nurse at the Thimany Pulp and Paper company, Mrs. Gertrude Nagel, Kaukauna city nurse, Miss Jean Bestler, nurse at Kimberly - Clark, Neenah, Mrs. Laura Hauge, Neenah, and Mrs. Margaret Romenesko, Kaukauna, mailed out 585 questionnaires.

The questionnaires were sent to all known nurses in Neenah, Menasha, Appleton, Kimberly, Little Chute, Combined Locks, Kaukauna, New London, Waupaca and Wausara county. Final conclusions of the survey will not be accurate without the returned questionnaires from all nurses in the area and to date 360 have answered, according to the committee.

Jordan Says Port Ideally Situated

Madison — The Outagamie county airport east of Appleton is ideally situated and will be adequate for the aeronautical needs of the community for the foreseeable future, state aeronautics officials said here Friday as they approved planned runway improvements and pledged state and federal aids to help pay for them.

The comments came from T. K. Jordan, director of the state aeronautics commission, as commissioners endorsed his approval of the extension of the principal runway and the ultimate construction of a cross run-way.

The $37,400 budget approved for land acquisition and includes state and federal funds, 75 per cent of the total.

Another application will be made next year for the actual construction costs when new state and federal aid appropriations become available.

Jordan spoke in the presence of an Outagamie county delegation that conferred with the commission earlier on an air service case, and obviously with reference to some proposals among Outagamie county residents for the construction of a new and larger airport in a new location.

He made it clear that state and federal aids would probably be denied any other airport construction plan because of the adequacy of the present facility and site.

He explained the runway extension eventually would close French road near the airport site.

The state commission order approved the plan of the county to develop the airport ultimately as a trunk airport, or class A facility, according to the design standards of the federal aviation agency.

Strupp Will Head NWEA Next Year

Delegates Choose Kewaskum Principal as Vice President

Jerome Strupp, teacher at Roosevelt Junior High school in Fond du Lac, was named president-elect of the Northeastern Wisconsin Education association at a delegates assembly Friday afternoon. He will not become president until 1960 when James McCormick, Green Bay, immediate past vice president and new president, concludes his term of office.

Clifford Rose, supervising principal at Kewaskum, was elected vice president. District officers are Miss Esther Johnson, Denmark. Mrs. Hazel Eisenmann, Manitowish county. Robert Fowler, Oshkosh, and Mrs. Elva McKinley, Fond du Lac.

Drop-Out Group
In other action, the NWEA directed the executive committee to appoint a research committee "to study problems of schools attendance, drop-outs, and delinquency."

The group plans to use the study to encourage proposals "for legislative action regarding compulsory school attendance laws or establishment of substitute programs, such as work camps, to care for those who do not desire to remain in school."

Support was given to "federal aid bills like the Murray-Metcalf bill, which clearly states that there shall be no federal intervention in schools, curricula or instructional programs."

The association also called for higher standards for selecting teachers and urged "unintended support of all members of the profession to education association on all levels." It also encouraged higher salaries.

Another resolution called for higher standards of television, movies, books and magazines. "The need is probably less for censorship than it is for an alert profession reinforced by an aroused citizenry made aware of the dangers to society."

A resolution to "use all possible moral persuasion to end the system of segregated teachers' organizations" in the south was tabled.

The resolution was offered by Albert Erlebacher, Sheboygan, a delegate to the NWEA assembly.

NWEA president Werner Witte called the motion "ill-planned." "If it had been presented to the resolutions committee, we might have been able to do something about it," he said.

The next convention will be in Green Bay, April 8, 1960.

Tomahawk Site of Checker Tournament

The Wisconsin Checker association will hold its annual tournament on April 18 and 19 at Tomahawk.

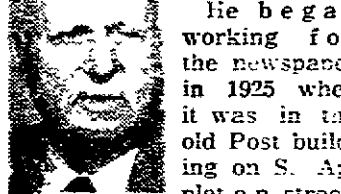

The tournaments, which have been held since 1922, will feature prizes for the three classes of competition. All checker players in the state may enter.

Werner Witte, Appleton, retiring president of the Northeastern Wisconsin Education association, congratulates the new vice president, Clifford Rose, supervising principal at Kewaskum. President-elect Jerome Strupp, teacher at Roosevelt Junior High school, Fond du Lac, looks on. Strupp will take office next year, after James McCormick, Green Bay, immediate past vice-president and new president, concludes his term in office.

Court Reverses NLRB In Miller Electric Case

Rules Buchberger's Union Work Coincident, Company Had Sufficient Reason to Fire Him

The national labor relations board's ruling that Miller Electric Manufacturing company, Inc., fired an employee for union activities was reversed Thursday by the United States court of appeals in Chicago.

Wilson's finding, as adopted by the NLRB, said the company discriminatorily discharged Vincent H. Buchberger, a sheet metal worker, because of his union organizing activities in late 1955. Wilson's finding, the court said Thursday, "is not supported by substantial evidence" and the company will not have to reinstate Buchberger.

Miller Grateful
The NLRB finding was one of several against the company and resulted from a week-long hearing conducted in 1957 at Appleton city hall and Outagamie county courthouse. Other findings against the company, involving minor matters, were not contested.

Ross Madden, Chicago representative of the United States circuit court of appeals, said he also regarded the order of the Washington NLRB, bringing the charges to trial, represented "this government bureau was out to get us."

Just Cause
The appeals court Thursday said it found that Miller Electric had more than just cause to discharge Buchberger prior to Dec. 29, 1955, date of a meeting of all Miller employees at which Buchberger "falsified facts and accused (Miller personally) of being dishonest with ... employees."

Therefore, the court said firing of Buchberger on Jan. 4, 1956, was not for union activities. His union activities, the court said, were a coincidence.

Wilson, the court said, "swept under the rug the mass of evidence of Buchberger being obnoxious, hard to get along with, a troublemaker and antagonistic toward his superiors, and of the many requests made to (Miller) to fire him."

Evidence of what happened before the firing to support the union and government charge that dismissal was for union activities did not refute the evidence of the other compelling reasons, the court said.

predicted in about four weeks. He said the complicated Kohler strike was an example of the need for legislation to end "this no man's land" caused by the backlog of cases before the National Labor Relations board.

Kennedy spoke to about 600 persons here at an appreciation dinner for Rep. Gerald Flynn. Gov. Gaylord Nelson, Atty. Gen. John Reynolds, and Patrick Lucey, state party chairman were among those present.

Kennedy started his day Friday with a talk to a standing-room only audience of 1,000 at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee. A Sheboygan luncheon sponsored by the county party organization drew 300 persons. A breakfast talk in Madison today, to which Democrats from around the state have been asked, started the final day of the 3-day Wisconsin tour which will close in Appleton tonight.

Kohler strike
In response to a question from a student, Kennedy said at Beloit that the result of a Catholic being a presidential candidate "would be a question that would have to be decided when a Catholic becomes the candidate."

"My own feeling is that the constitution does not require this test for office and that the American people also today do not have this test," Kennedy replied.

Kennedy told the Sheboygan press conference that the report on the McClellan committee hearings into the Kohler strike will be completed in about four weeks.

Both at the press conference and at Beloit, Kennedy pointed out that Sen. Edward Muskie, a Catholic, was elected in Maine and Gov. Abraham Ribicoff, a Jew, was elected in Connecticut.

"My own judgment is that based on the record of the past 20 years that the American people have their judgment pretty much on general talent and not on the basis of their religions," he said at Sheboygan.

Friends may call at the Wichmann funeral home, Appleton, from 2 p.m. Sunday to 9:30 a.m. Monday and then at the church.

Survivors include three daughters, Mrs. Paulick, Mrs. Henry Kersten and Miss Lucille Raether, all of Appleton; a son, Gordon, Caroline; two brothers, Emil and Julius, both of Algoma; six sisters, Mrs. Julius Pfluhoeft, Mrs. Henry Leverenz, Mrs. Frank Knipfer and Mrs. Herman Griese, all of Algoma; Mrs. Ernest Zermulm and Mrs. Bertha Hurly, both of Two Rivers; and six grandchildren.

Mental Patients Can Help Themselves

Many a person has been able to weather a long period of convalescence by telling anyone who will listen about his or her operation. This form of conversation has helped to pass the time, no doubt, but has not always contributed anything toward the recovery of patients suffering from physical ailments. However, it has been found that this practice can be very important in promoting the recovery of those suffering from mental illnesses.

A group of former mental patients in Huntington, W. Va., have developed a scheme which the National Association for Mental Health would like to have copied everywhere. These patients are talking about their illnesses freely and frankly just as most recovering surgical patients do. They are encouraged to do it as a contribution to general welfare on the theory that the public's attitude of secrecy toward mental illnesses merely adds to the problem of this particular form of illness.

The practice of talking about mental illness by former patients is encouraged by scientists in this field. It is pointed out that more tax money is spent in the treatment of mental illnesses and with less public support than in any other field. Most people now are familiar with the scientific viewpoint that a mental illness is an illness with no more stigma attached to it than any other form. But in spite of this scientific opinion, the public has for a long time, and still does, attach a stigma which not only prevents the early treatment when such treatment would be most effective but also tends to prevent complete rehabilitation of the patient.

It is believed that one of the great reasons for this public stigma will be wiped out when mental patients are taught to discuss their illnesses as freely as the surgical patient. In Huntington the ex-patients have formed a club. For full membership it is necessary for applicants to identify themselves by name in club's public activities. Groups of members appear on radio and even on television programs to describe their illnesses and tell about their recoveries. They sometimes form panels which appear before persons interested in learning about mental illnesses, people who have had experience therein.

It is difficult to tell just how successful this has been so far but the experts in the field believe they have found a way for the mental patients to make a long stride forward. They point out that with one exception no club member ever has been refused a job following discharge although they never have hesitated to admit their prior mental illnesses. That is about the only present measure of success but it's an important one. Perhaps the most important thing any mental patient can do for himself is to face up to the facts and talk about them freely for here, as in many other instances, people fear the things they do not understand and understanding can come quickly through discussion.

Free Flow of Milk Products Opposed

A bill that would assure free flow of milk and milk products in interstate commerce faces a real battle in Washington despite the fact that its passage would benefit consumers throughout the nation.

Introduced by Wisconsin Reps. Melvin R. Laird, Seventh district Republican, and Lester R. Johnson, Ninth district Democrat, the proposal states that milk that meets U. S. Public Health Service standards shall not be kept out of U. S. market areas.

In many parts of the United States, the two congressmen argue, Wisconsin milk is kept off store shelves by restrictions designed to help local producers. In many cases the local milk can't match the Wisconsin product in either price or quality.

Passage of the Laird-Johnson bill wouldn't discriminate against producers in other areas, Rep. Johnson pointed out in a speech to the House of Representatives. It simply provides that milk that meets health service standards can't be blocked from sale. Milk shipped within boundaries of a state would stay under control of state and local sanitary codes.

The bill sounds fair enough and an array of health and farm organizations have supported it.

But, seeing their cozy home markets slipping away, producers in other parts of the country are marshaling their forces to beat the bill. Rep. Laird reports that the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers' association has spent as high as $10,000 per week in Washington for newspaper, radio and TV advertising condemning use of the milk code recommended by Laird, Johnson and the U. S. Public Health Service.

The opponents' principal argument seems to be that since Wisconsin milk often costs less, it is therefore of inferior grade — as though price were the sole standard of quality!

Laird reports that the opposition campaign is bearing fruit. Consumer support is not developing for the legislation, he says.

If selfish interests are successful in defeating the Laird-Johnson proposal, the Wisconsin dairy farmer will, of course, be a loser, too. But the greatest setback will be for consumers everywhere — people who can ill afford to get short shrift on their grocery bills, and, more important, their personal health.

Berlin Type Fracas in U. S.?

A squabble to delight the hearts of those who like interesting quarrels without bloodshed is brewing in the west, Nevada's legislature has passed a bill instructing the state attorney general to use all means possible to recover about 40,000 square miles of California which originally was included in Nevada territory.

It must be suspected that the present prominence given to the Olympic winter games at Squaw Valley, part of the disputed area, may be influencing the Nevadans. But they don't stand a roulette player's chance of winning, California, with its present boundaries including half of Lake Tahoe and all of Squaw Valley, became a state in 1850, eleven years before the Territory of Nevada was set up. Furthermore, when the California legislature in 1861 refused to give up the territory, part of western Utah was given to Nevada instead.

Obviously, western Utah's desert miles are not the same type of terrain as the land east of the Sierras which Nevada is claiming. And there is a considerable sum of money involved as well, since the bill demand the taxes collected for the area during all these years, plus interest on the "loan."

Californians, as befits citizens of a state that once was an independent republic, have risen nobly to the occasion. One assemblyman is accepting volunteers for an expeditionary force to the state line and has announced he has 100 soldiers "and the necessary camp followers to make this expedition a success." Another has offered to enlist in the "Lake Tahoe navy" to defend his state, and another pleads "let's remain cool, let's keep our powder dry." Sen. John Murdy insists that the Nevadans probably owe California cash since "Californians put more into Nevada slot machines than Nevadans."

Under the constitution, a dispute between states comes under the original jurisdiction of the United States Supreme court. But another section explicitly states that "no new state shall be formed or erected within the jurisdiction of any other state . . . without the consent of the legislatures of the states concerned . . ."

California simply got going first.

Warn Children Never To Ride With Stranger

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I will read about it in the paper tonight. That is if I can bear to do it. The "creature" is with us again. No, I don't mean that there is a horror movie on at a local theater. I mean the story of the little boy in Milwaukee who accepted a ride with the wrong person.

Recently I read a mystery novel that told the fictitious tale of how a very average young family was terrorized by a gang of young hoodlums who roamed the night in search of a derelict to beat to satisfy some sadistic appetite that ate at their sense of reason. The author aptly called them "tigers."

Even the animal world has no creature that compares with the type of human (?) that will lure a child, torture him and, as he feels he must do then, kill him. He can only be called a "thing."

Too often, after these "hits" are captured, their kin will admit that they were "acting a bit strange lately" or say that the offender was unmanageable as a child and they just didn't know what to do about it. I cannot be too hard on these parents and relatives as I would hate to have to "do something" about a son or daughter of mine if I saw or sensed an abnormal behavior pattern in their lives. Yet, these parents and relatives probably are the only ones that could prevent a tragedy like the one that assailed little Benny.

I hope that you don't feel that it can't happen here because I know it can. I remember well the little neighbor girl coming home from

Ebenezer Childs One of First Green Bay Residents, Politicians

BY JACK RUDOLPH
Post-Crescent News Service

History has an annoying and unwarranted enthusiasm for wielding a white-wash brush. Any pioneer who attains material success is liable to be so smeared as to be unrecognizable to his best friends — to say nothing of his own embarrassment.

Fortunately, every so often a hardy soul appears who refuses to hold still for the treatment. No matter how hard they try, misguided descendants can't make such a charming rogue respectable, and the history of a community is the richer for the failure.

Ebenezer Childs was like that. An individualist if ever there was one, he combined most of the virtues with many of the vices of a frontiersman. Childs was a lusty, colorful personality, and when the time came he took care of history by getting in the first licks himself. As an old man he wrote his own story, and a delightful one it is, too.

Rudolph

when he was supposed to be in church. He successfully eluded the hue and cry, however, and made his way to New York.

For the next few years he was apparently on the bum, working westward through New York and Ohio. Early in 1820 he turned up in Detroit where he was hired by a merchant named Brown to take a stock of groceries and trade goods to LaBaye and open a store. Childs arrived at Shantytown in May, 1820, and went into business. He had just turned 23.

A shrewd youngster who had come up the hard way, Childs was a good trader. He quickly got in bad with the military authorities at Ft. Howard because his most lucrative traffic was selling liquor to the soldiers of the garrison. He had a trick for smuggling whiskey into the post that worked for months, and although the post commander knew he was doing it he never could catch him.

Much Trouble

He was always in hot water with the military. A stubborn, hot headed young man who had been around, he didn't scare easily and when, as he liked to put it, he "got his Ebenezer up" was hard to handle. More than once the defiant youngster invited the army brass to go fly a kite and got away with it.

Child's ace in the hole was that he stood in well with the other traders, who also had their troubles with the military. Within a year he was working for Daniel Whitney, for whom he built a store — somewhere along the way he had become a competent carpenter — and who thought "well enough of him to send him on business missions as far as St. Louis."

Being fiercely independent, Childs never stayed too long with any one employer. At one time or another he worked for Whitney, John P. Arndt, James Doty and William Dickinson, although he described his association with the latter as a partnership. In 1825 he built the first frame house in Wisconsin for Judge Doty, and in 1827 supervised the construction of Arndt's sawmill on the west bay shore.

Lived in DePere

That same year he helped Dickinson raise a company of Indian scouts for the Winnebago War and two years later entered some sort of a business arrangement with him. Whether it was a partnership is uncertain, but he followed Dickinson to what

LaBaye Too Crowded

One of the earliest American settlers in Green Bay, Childs would be better known today if he had stayed around. But he left after 25 years for more open pastures, possibly because the place was getting too crowded and stuffy for his taste.

If Ebenezer Childs didn't qualify as a pillar of propriety, it was understandable. Orphaned at an early age, he lived thereafter by his wits, and he did all right.

Childs was born in Worcester county, Mass., April 3, 1797. His parents died before he was 10 and he was on his own. He managed so well that by the time he was 19 he was drawing down the princely wage of 50 cents a day.

He might never have left his home town if an overzealous tax collector hadn't tried to hit him up for minister tax. Ebenezer couldn't see it, stalled as long as he dared, then took off.

Evading taxes in early New England was serious enough, but young Childs compounded the offense by running away on Sunday is now DePere and apparently prospered there.

Meanwhile, he had become active in local affairs and soon entered politics. He was plaintiff in the first jury trial ever held at Green Bay and won his case, although years later he couldn't remember what the fuss was about. He was on the jury that acquitted Chief Oshkosh of murder and in 1824 was a jurymen and witness in Doty's drive against common law marriages.

Before that campaign was over Childs wound up before the grand jury himself on the same charges, but his friends didn't try very hard to convict him. He got off, but there seems to have been some fire under the smoke.

Childs was an active man in those years. He traveled all over Wisconsin, was commissioner of a road building project on the east side of the Fox river to Kaukauna, and he took Arndt's first Durham boat on its maiden trip up the river, across the Portage and down the Wisconsin and Mississippi to St. Louis. On the way back he brought the first cargo of lead from the mines at Galena, Ill., to Green Bay. Meanwhile, he found time to marry a daughter of Augustin Grignon.

Childs remained in the legislature until 1840, but his only significant contribution to its deliberations seems to have been his carpentry skill. This came in handy during the first session at Madison where the unfinished capitol was so drafty the legislators had to recess while he plugged up some of the cracks.

In his recollections he delighted in telling how he used to shut off debate when it got too long winded. He would, according to his story, stir up a herd of pigs in the cellar with a long pole until their squeals drowned out the speaker.

Childs left Green Bay about 1845, moved about the Lake Superior region for a couple of years, lived in Milwaukee briefly and finally settled at LaCrosse in 1852. Apparently he became a figure of some consequence there, too, being a member of the county board in 1853.

Thereafter he dropped out of community activity. Except for his charming reminiscences, written for Dr. Lyman Draper in 1858, there is no further mention of him in state historical records. Even the date of his death is not recorded.

Kaukauna Postmaster Then to LaCrosse

He was living at Kaukauna in 1829 when he was appointed postmaster there as well as sheriff of Brown county. He only held the postmastership one year but served as sheriff until 1836 when he was elected to the first territorial legislature.

Childs remained in the legislature until 1840, but his only significant contribution to its deliberations seems to have been his carpentry skill. This came in handy during the first session at Madison where the unfinished capitol was so drafty the legislators had to

Frank Lloyd Wright's Genius Praised by State Editors

By The Associated Press

Editorial writers in Wisconsin saluted the passing of her greatest son with the same mixed emotions that Frank Lloyd Wright summoned up among his contemporaries during the 70 stormy years of his professional career.

But to most, death of the world's greatest architect — and one of the most controversial figures in the culture of the world — left a dominant atmosphere of enormous loss, and lingering bewilderment. All hailed the genius, some pondered the puzzle of the man.

"Wisconsin claimed him through the location of his ancestral acres," The Milwaukee Journal said, "but eyed him over with astonishment and awe rather than affection."

Passing Makes Us Poorer

"Yet the brilliant, blinding, cruel tongue of Wright was a boon of more value than most hearers could bring themselves to put on it at the time . . . We will not see his like again, and that, with all the reckoning in, makes us poorer by far."

At Racine, the Journal-Times noted that the city's pride in some of Wright's famed buildings must be shared with nearly every great city of the world, and added:

"But his monument will be more than individual buildings; it will be in ideas and principles that have come to be a coherent philosophy, expressed in words as often as it was expressed in stone and mortar . . . Those ideas will not die with Frank Lloyd Wright, and they will live longer than the buildings he built. They are the real monument to this complex genius who helped to change our world."

The Sheboygan Press recalled that "some persons sat at his feet and looked up to him as the greatest genius of the modern age; countless other persons regarded him as a complete ecoust and an impractical visionary."

"With his death, however, we believe the people all over the world . . . will recognize he was a genius and will think well of him for his unorthodoxy."

Messrs. Fleming & Gilmore have let the contract for the erection of their Flax mills building to Wilson & Schneider, thoroughly competent mechanics. They will have it ready for occupancy by the 1st of July.

Dimensions are as follows: The main building is to be 49 by 97 with an ell of 40 by 60; four stories in height and covered with an iron roof.

The buildings will be erected on a substantial stone foundation and bricked outside. The machinery will be of the latest design and the most approved to be had in the country. The mill is designed to be first-class in every particular.

Fire Causes Over $1,500 Basement Loss

Match or Hot Ashes
In Carton Blamed in Mielke Home Blaze

Fire caused damage estimated between $1,500 and $2,000 late Friday morning in the basement of the J. C. Mielke home, 517 E. Pacific street.

Fire Chief Paul Neumann said a lighted match or hot ashes tossed into a paper carton in the basement after ash-trays were emptied probably was the cause.

The paper carton, Neumann said, was directly under a gas meter which was melted.

Flames destroyed the gas meter, a light meter, all basement wiring and the gauge on a fuel oil tank across the room. The tank itself was undamaged.

Visible Blocks Away
There was extensive damage to rafters, one joist was scorched and smoke caused damage throughout the house, the chief said.

Firemen said smoke billowing from the 2-story frame house was visible blocks away as they approached.

The Mielke's daughter was the first to notice the smoke as it rolled out of first floor partitions and Mrs. Mielke called the firemen about 9:44.

Firemen immediately shut off the gas but called Wisconsin Michigan Power company troubleshooters to check the installation.

Trolling Program in State Inconclusive

But Commission Says Experiment Was Used by More Fishermen on Winnebago Than Other Waters

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Trolling is more popular on Lake Winnebago among fishermen than among those who fish in the other lakes on which experimental trolling was permitted last year by the state conservation commission, the commission has reported to the legislature.

The commission two years ago was asked to relax its long-time ban against trolling on inland waters to the extent that representative lakes could be studied. Half a dozen trial lakes were chosen.

Inconclusive Results
On the whole, said the commission in a first year report, the results were inconclusive. There were too few fishermen taking advantage of the privilege to warrant any conclusions as to the consequences to the fish populations or the potential fish harvest.

But Lake Winnebago, the largest inland lake of the state, was an exception.

Nearly 29 per cent of the anglers on the lake observed and interviewed last summer used the trolling method, the report said, and those who trolled behind sail or motor had better fishing than those who did not.

The catch per hour for trollers was 1.33 fish, and those who fished by conventional means took only .68 fish to the hour, it was found.

Walleyes represented 56 per cent of the trolled catch and 38 per cent of the catch by conventional methods. The catch of northern pike was small but trollers took five times as many as non-trollers. Trollers also took small-mouth, largemouth, perch, said

He has had 17 years in the grocery business and formerly operated the Northside Keenway, Wisconsin Food Market, the O.K. Food Market and for the past 8 years the store at 1421 N. Richmond street. The store takes its name from the first two letters of Mr. Kostzke's wife's name, Alice Kostzke. This store, which has doubled in size since it opened, was the first independent supermarket in the Fox Valley, the first independent grocery to be strictly cash and carry and the first to offer self service on meats. There is a check out counter in the back where shoppers can always find plenty of convenient parking space.

Report Cites Need For Boating Rules

Legislature Told Wisconsin Now Has 211,000 Outboards in Use

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The booming numbers and the rapidly increasing power of small boats point up the need for more public regulation of pleasure boating in Wisconsin, a boating problems study commission said in a final account of its investigations undertaken for the legislature.

The commission has sponsored a state boat registration law, previously reported, a revision of the code governing the use of boats, and another bill that would prohibit any form of licensing of pleasure craft by localities.

Formal Report
Its final and formal report sought to underline the size of boating traffic by reciting some recent trends. There are now more than 211,000 outboard motors in use in Wisconsin, and last year the average horsepower of motors sold was 20.7, or more than five times the power of ten years ago, it found.

Wisconsin ranks about 40th in the nation in the size of its population, but about ninth among the states in numbers of motor boats operated by its residents, the committee also discovered.

The committee's report with recommendations was moderate on the whole, perhaps reflecting the acute conflicts of interests it found among the recreational water users of the state.

Future Legislation
The committee emphasized such divergent interests at length.

It concluded, with a probable hint of future legislative developments in the field.

"Obviously each of these groups, and others have a legitimate interest in the use of the public waters; just as obviously, each must yield to some extent to the interests of the others if the maximum number of people are to enjoy the waters of the state to the greatest extent possible and in as much safety as possible."

Commercial Fish Gear Recovered By Department

Madison — Valuable commercial fishing gear feared lost on snowbound Green Bay three weeks ago has been recovered with the help of the state conservation department, the legislature has been told.

Director L. P. Voigt of the department said his men rescued the stranded equipment with the help of "air-boats" transferred from the Mississippi river district. The boats transported nearly a ton and a half of nets and other equipment on each trip.

The legislature directed the department to render emergency assistance to the fishermen who were caught by heavy snow storms during their winter fishing operations. The resolution asking for such help was sponsored by Sen. Reuben LaFave of Oconto.

Perch Top Commercial Fishery Item

Increased Harvest At Green Bay Significant Trend

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The recovery of the commercial perch fishery in Lake Michigan and Green Bay is one of the significant current trends in the otherwise declining Wisconsin commercial fishing enterprise, the state conservation commission showed today in a harvest report.

Perch and chubs, the latter also taken mostly in Lake Michigan, today are the principal remaining species harvested by fishermen.

Lake Trout
The whitefish and lake trout, once vital in the trade, are now taken in only negligible quantities. The sea lamprey is usually blamed for the virtual disappearance of those larger species.

The commission reported on the harvest for 1957, showing 2,093,000 pounds of perch taken from Lake Michigan and Green Bay, and 5,561,000 pounds of chubs.

The Lake Michigan and Green Bay fishery is now far larger in production volume than that of Lake Superior.

Herring Crop
The herring is now the principal fish crop in the northern lake, accounting for 3,154,000 pounds in the department's report.

But Green Bay and Lake Michigan produced 2,091,000 pounds of the herring. Both lakes showed a decline in herring yield for the year.

The economic importance of the decline of the lake trout is shown in the fact that only 286,000 pounds were taken from Lake Superior, where yields used to reach 700,000 pounds, and that no trout have been reported from Lake Michigan and Green Bay in recent years, where annual harvests once approached 3,000,000 pounds.

Resist Minnesota's Plans for Game Group

Sister State Encounters Difficulty In Reorganizing Conservation Unit

St. Paul, Minn.—In a situation that is strikingly similar to circumstances at the Wisconsin state capitol, Gov. Orville Freeman of this state is encountering the resistance of sportsmen's groups in his effort to reorganize the state conservation department.

Like his Democratic colleague in Wisconsin, Gov. Gaylord Nelson, the Minnesota executive is apparently unable to persuade influential outdoor groups that his measure for a department reorganization is in the best interest of the wildlife resources management program.

Izaak Walton League chapter officers here are denouncing the Freeman reorganization measure as one that would make the govern-

Long Low Luxurious Lines of the 1959 Super "88" Oldsmobile convertible fit into any setting and according to Rector Motors, Appleton Oldsmobile dealers, it is one of the safest cars on the market. Oldsmobile quality starts with the rugged guard beam frame, Rector says, which gives the car a smoother ride and extra safety, because it encircles the entire passenger compartment for maximum protection. The driver, Rector says, is still the greatest safety factor in a car, but they have done their best this year, to make the 1959 Oldsmobile as big a help as possible: the instru- ment panel is safety padded, the windshield has over 500 square inches more glass area for more seeing area, the extra go-power of the Rocket engine can be counted on to help out of tight places, and better braking in the new Oldsmobile.

A Monument of Granite or Marble is a symbol of devotion that will remain beautiful and visible forever, according to the Appleton Marble & Granite Works, 918 N. Love street.

A monument will record for posterity the warmth of your family love, it is said. The Appleton Marble & Granite Works suggests that you choose your family plot now, as a family, in a cemetery that allows you the privilege of erecting the traditionally American type of memorial—a distinctive upright monu-ment. Estimates are given with- out any obligation on memor-ial work at the firm, and it is important to secure such near-by communities. Apple- ton Marble & Granite Works is the hometown dealer for all of these towns and has representatives serving them in these areas. The firm guar-antees artistic craftsmanship as well as satisfactory instal-lation. It is a permanent in-vestment. Appleton Marble & Granite Works reminds that it is now time to make arrangements for spring setting of monu-ments. Many pieces are not always available in stock and must be ordered from distant quarries requiring considera-ble time for delivery. Orders received in April can usually be set in place on a family lot by Memorial day, the firm said. Phone number at Appleton Marble & Granite Works is RE 3-2938.

Cause of a Lot of Activity at Fox River Tractor Co. is this new forage harvester which is being produced at a new lower price. The Appleton firm is celebrating its 40th anniversary this year.

Fox River Tractor Co. is especially busy this year. Their row corn units. Already the machine has been sent all over the United States. Fox River Tractor Co. also makes a heavy duty forage harvester which, in addition to United States sales, has been sent to several foreign countries, including Belgium, Holland, France and Israel.

There are problems to even a smooth running organization such as Fox River Tractor. According to Ray Sabin, president of the company, one of the most immediate problems today is the lack of storage space at the present plant.

Machines are made in lots of 200 and as different units are added it sometimes means storing as many as 1200 units at one time. Fox River Tractor is now using all of its available space. Plans are being formulated by the firm for a new plant west of the city where 24 acres of land has been acquired near the intersection of Highways 41 and 10.

Checking for Efficiency in a Modern oil burner is a serviceman working with Marston Brothers, Inc., distributors of Mobil products. This is a new service of Marston's, called Automatic Personal Care.

Lots of new things are going on at Marston's these days and they are all improvements for the convenience of their customers.

The new "automatic personal care" which has recently been installed at Marston Brothers has five important benefits for users.

Every heating system requires somebody's care to keep all its operating dependability up and fuel costs down. But since no two systems are exactly alike in use, each requires personal care.

An agreement with Marston Brothers will guarantee heating plant supervision and proper oil burner care in your home. This will include day and night service at no extra cost and annual service such as check-ups and cleaning and testing of various parts and functions of your burner.

In addition APC will mean an adequate supply of Mobil heat and weather-accurate deliveries. With metered tickets there is no chance for error and with Marston's adequate storage there is no danger of running out in extreme weather.

Marston's have experienced personnel and specialized equipment. (Why, Joe even has an electric gadget on his desk for figuring oil consumption that considers temperature, humidity, and rain or snow.) Marston's equalized payment plan on a 10- or 12-month basis can now include the new automatic personal care, if the customer desires.

Marston's have been serving the Fox Cities area since 1878. They are the Mobil distributors since November, when they moved their location to 405 E. Railroad avenue.

One Cent Sale at Looks Drug Store To Start Monday

The One Cent Sale is a national affair for all company-owned stores and also drug stores such as Looks which are independently owned with a Walgreen Agency. This will be the twentieth annual One Cent Sale at Looks Drug Stores in Kaukauna. The sale will be on all week, starting Monday, April 13.

According to the management of the two Looks Stores, customers will be able to stock up on many of their drug needs at just about half of the regular everyday prices. The slogan for the week will be "Buy any item included in our One Cent Sale at the regular price and get another for just one penny more."

A milestone in service was recently achieved by Look Drug Stores in Kaukauna when they filled prescription number 500,000 at their No. 1 store, 112 E. Second street.

The firm began in 1911 when Otto A. Look purchased the Kaukauna drug company. The store was under the management of his son, Arthur Look, from 1924. A partnership was formed between Art Look and Art Mongin in 1948, and when Art Look passed away in 1953 a new partnership was formed between Mrs. Art Look and Mongin. The stores are now incorporated.

In Good Taste Friend Can Be Useful in This Case

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I am faced with a very ticklish situation. A friend of mine has recently moved to a new house and is having quite a large housewarming party. The invitations to this party have been sent out but I did not receive one and I can't imagine why. I'm sure there must be some mistake as she has talked about the party to me on several occasions and intimated that I was to be invited. Would it be proper for me to go on the assumption that the invitation was lost in the mail, or must I stay away. I was anxiously looking forward to seeing her new house.

Answer: Have one of your mutual friends who has been invited tell the hostess that she fears you have not received an invitation and are very disappointed not to see her new house.

Limited Reception

Dear Mrs. Post: My son is going to be married shortly. We have been informed by the bride's family that we are to limit our invitation list to 25 guests. We have many relatives and friends who will be very disappointed at not being invited to the wedding. I would like to give a reception at my house for these relatives and friends that same evening. The reception given by the bride's family will be from 1 to 3 p. m. Will you please tell me if this would be proper.

Answer: It will be much better to give a reception for your son and his bride after they return from their wedding trip.

Topic of Program

Complete Program Books For Williams Concert

Program books for the Roger Williams concert to be presented by Charity circle of King's Daughters at 8:30 p. m. Tuesday April 28 at Appleton High school auditorium have been completed. General ticket sales are now underway for the nationally famous pianist's appearance. Mrs. Richard Kewey, general chairman, announced today.

A Louisiana newspaper, reporting a Roger Williams concert within the last two weeks, stated: "The noted pianist's castleness and informality cast a warm feeling through out the audience, quite unlike the usual concert rigidity, creating an impressive intimacy between pianist and audience. . . Roger Williams' versatility of melody moods was amazing."

The demand for Williams' music has been so phenomenal that seven long playing record albums have been released to the public within a 15 month period — more albums released in this period of time than by any other artist in the history of the popular recording field.

Home Economist Needs Wide Range of Work Experience

BY SUSAN PARKER

A woman in any of the fields related to that of home economist must be something of an encyclopedia. She must be ready to answer almost any problem about home management.

Girls who are about to graduate in June from high schools or colleges must make decisions as to their future plans in the career world. Requirements of the jobs, such as education needed, qualifications and daily routine, are explained.

accumulation of knowledge about everything related to the domestic arts. Miss Josephine Engel, home economist in the home service department of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company, is such a walking encyclopedia. Miss Engel spends her days answering questions about what to do with leftover fruit juice, what happens to the old stand-by cake recipe which suddenly falls while baking stain removal, cleaning fabrics and how to wash wall paper.

Tests Appliances

She is always testing new appliances when they come on the market and when they have been repaired.

Miss Engel presents special cooking displays and demonstrations for various organizations and schools.

The girl who likes to travel and meet people will enjoy making house calls to demonstrate proper usage of equipment.

Basic Background

Miss Engel claims that her warehouse of facts comes only with experience and a good basic background in foods, clothing and appliances, subjects a girl should take in junior high school, high school and in college.

The aspiring home economist needs as much training as possible, including, field work, and ability to meet and work with the public.

Miss Engel is a native of Appleton and attended Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, N. Y., where she studied foods. She supervised restaurant work with the New York Telephone company in cafeterias as a supervisor, was employed by the New York utilities before returning to Appleton 22 years ago.

Family Diary

This house has been bulging at the seams ever since John's 14-year-old niece, Mitzi, came to live with us. This should have been reason enough to say "no" when Bruce asked if Pete Snyder could stay with us for a few days while his parents were out-of-town.

But Pete is Bruce's best friend. And though I knew there would be some complications — such as eight people trying to get ready for work or school in a house with one and a half bathrooms — I thought we'd manage.

It certainly never occurred to me that Mitzi would consider Pete's visit as a romantic interlude — Libby at the table wearing the black sweater I'd tactfully suggested was too old for her, and spelling words. I suggested with her mouth made up into an exaggerated Cupid's bow.

The night he arrived Mitzi slipped into her place at the table wearing the black sweater I'd tactfully suggested was too old for her, and spelling words. I suggested with her mouth made up into an exaggerated Cupid's bow.

Silent Surprise It was really kind of funny. The boys gulped; John almost spilled his water, and though Sally was on the verge of around while they're working, what we call one of her "Sallys," she maintained silence — and I resolved to do the same. After all, the "mouth" is. I tiptoed down the basement steps until I could see into the workroom. Mitzi was draped like a reclining Venus over one end of the work table and was looking coyly up at Pete and laughing throatily. Pete looked flushed and Bruce unhappy.

Worried Adults Silently I retreated and sought out John. "I don't know whether to say anything stay another day. To her or not, I can't keep the child all rand before she had time to the time—and she's not doing anything wrong. Just silly. But Pete is sixteen and Mitzi is attractive I don't want him to get any ideas."

"Don't worry," John said, but he looked worried. And with some cause. The next morning Mitzi managed to leave for junior high when Bruce and Pete left for high school—though I meant leaving earlier than necessary. That afternoon when Libby got home from school she reported that Mitzi had gone to meet Peter and help him carry his paper route.

"Does Pete know about this?" I worried. "Does he really like her?" "Don't ask me," Libby shrugged. "He's so polite always you can't tell." Then she added, "That's because he doesn't have any sisters."

Libby's observation, though acute, was of no help—and that was what I needed. Less than fifteen minutes before Mitzi came dragging home on Pete's arm. I got a telegram from Pete's mother saying they were having such a grand time they planned to stay another day.

I sent Mitzi off on an errand before she had time to take off her coat and waylaid Pete in the kitchen. "Pete I began. Then as I looked into his candid eyes I didn't know what to say. "It's all right." A do-or-die flush stained Pete's cheeks. "I think I know what you want to ask me—and if you want the truth, I... I'll tell you."

I wanted to say "no," but it was too late for that. "She's nuts," Pete said, in a stentorian boy whisper, like all girls. And you can't help it if she's a little worse than most." Comfortingly he patted my arm. "If you can just keep her in orbit a little longer, I think she'll be all right."

Your Problems

Blushing Can't be Cured; It's an Asset, Charming for a Woman

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The fellows in the office have discovered that I blush easily and now they're making my life miserable. I'm the target for all the office jokes, and everyone hangs around staring to see how I react.

I feel like a country bumpkin and would give anything if I could overcome this ridiculous blushing. It seems to be getting worse than ever now that I've become acutely aware of it. Can blushing be cured? If so, how?—Rosy Red

DEAR ROSY: Blushing is an involuntary act and nothing can be done to "cure" or control it.

It's nice to know there are girls around who can still work up a good blush these days. Don't be ashamed of it, Lucky, because most men consider the blush charming and feminine. It's an asset, not a liability.

DEAR ANN: I wonder how many women raise their children alone, even though they have husbands. Mine never had time for his family. He threw his money away in taverns while I struggled to keep things going.

I was alone so much I read constantly and learned to appreciate art and music. I made a life of my own. Now I find myself married to a man I hardly know. He's old and worn out. (Liquor can hasten the process better than anything I know.)

His looks are gone and I don't see a trace of what I used to think was charm. His mind has stagnated at a level I find juvenile. I couldn't kindle a spark of love for him if he was the last man on earth.

Suddenly he's decided he'd like to be by my side every minute. He's my legal husband yet he's a stranger to me. I don't expect a solution, but I'd appreciate a comment.

DEAR ST: You're right. I have no solution. Some relationships can deteriorate beyond repair, and this one

Packers Sign Two Veterans but Lose Carlton Massey

Skoronski and Knafelc in Fold; Defensive End Stays in Business

Green Bay — (U) — The Green Bay Packers signed two veterans Friday and at the same time learned they had lost a dependable linebacker — Carlton Massey.

Signed were Bob Skoronski, a tackle and Gary Knafelc, an end, according to Coach Vince Lombardi. Skoronski played with the Packers in 1956 before he went into service where he played for two years. Knafelc was hampered by injuries in both the 1957 and 1958 seasons and saw only limited action.

Private Business Massey, defensive end and linebacker for the Packers last year, announced at San Antonio, Tex., he was retiring from pro football to remain in private business. He is a 5-year veteran, including three years with Cleveland and two with Green Bay.

Skoronski played outstanding ball for Bolling Air Force Base for the last two seasons. The former Indiana captain stands 6-3 and weighs 250. Skoronski, since being separated from service in March, has been working in public relations for the Packers. Knafelc was off to a fast start in the first three games in 1957 when a freak accident causing a knee lock occurred in practice. In three games that season he caught nine passes for 16 yards and two touchdowns. Gary sustained the exact injury on the other knee in the fifth game of the 1958 season against the Philadelphia Eagles. Up to that time, he had caught eight passes for 118 yards and one touchdown.

Wet Diamonds Hinder Vike Conditioning

Boya-Coached Team Due to Open Wednesday

Lack of batting punch was a problem for the 1958 Lawrence college baseball team. Coach Don Boya is having his troubles in trying to correct that inadequacy for '59. With their season opener coming up Wednesday (at Oshkosh State college) the Vikings have yet to take an outdoor batting drill. Conceivably, they may not get in even one before the Titan contest.

Appleton's heavy March snow has rendered Goodland field and the South Side Athletic club park (the city's two baseball diamonds) too wet to use thus far. Boya's players have been playing catch and hitting fungoes on the athletic field just south of Whiting (football) field but there isn't enough room there for batting practice.

7 Lettermen Back Just how much the SSAC park will be available to the Vikings is problematical. It will be used by the new Appleton Little League this spring and the city will be routing a street through the present out field, making the field unsuitable for regulation baseball.

What hitting the Vikings have done has been of a "soft" hardball (of official size and weight) in Alexander gym. Boya has seven lettermen (five regulars) on hand as the Vikings join the Midwest conference baseball league this spring. Last year, the first season of baseball at Lawrence since World War II, Boya's outfit played outside the conference set-up and dropped all seven of its games.

Pollard Seeks Laker Post

Kundla Resigns To Succeed Gophers' Cowles

Minneapolis — (U) — Jim Pollard and Vern Mikkelsen put themselves in the running Friday for the Minneapolis Laker coaching job vacated by the shift to the University of Minnesota of Johnny Kundla.

"I'm definitely interested," said Pollard, the onetime Laker great who later put in three seasons as coach of LaSalle in Philadelphia.

Mikkelsen said he was willing to discuss the job with Laker President Bob Short and club directors if they show interest in him.

"Several Others" Short has said frequently that he definitely is interested in Mikkelsen, "and several others." These would include Pollard of course.

But the Laker president appeared to be in no hurry to make a final decision. "I really haven't thought it through completely," he said, "although of course I've given it some consideration."

Kundla was the guiding arm of the Minneapolis Lakers for 12 years.

Kundla succeeds Ozzie Cowles. He will receive $12,000 annually under a four-year contract compared with the $13,500 a year he has been getting as Laker coach.

Braves Win, 8-0, as Spahn's New Pitches Baffle Pirates

Shutout Is 44th for Warren

Pittsburgh — (U) — Southpaw Warren Spahn, who at 37 has reached the age when most baseball players have either retired or are thinking of retiring, may have come up with something that will keep him in the game a few more years—a couple of new pitches.

The crafty Milwaukee Braves pitcher spoiled the Pittsburgh Pirates' home opener Friday by scattering seven hits in twirling the forty-fourth shutout of his major league career.

Strikeout Victims Spahn, shooting for his tenth season as a 20-game winner, revealed in the dressing room he has developed a couple of new pitches, including a curve. He said it worked especially good against southpaw hitters.

Spahn said: "All I'm looking forward to is to win my next game. But what I have lost in age I have gained in the pitches I have developed. I believe I might be around for awhile at that."

"Spahn pitched a great game," Crandall said. "And every man on this club is confident."

Billy Bruton, who suffered a leg injury here in 1957 when he collided with Brave infielder Felix Mantilla, said after the game his leg is giving him no trouble.

Wes Covington, who had a leg injury last season, also appears in good shape," chimed in Brave Manager Fred Haney. "I think we'll win the pennant, of course. We will miss our great second baseman, Red Schoendienst, but Felix Mantilla did fine and I believe he'll fill the bill."

Spahn, who will be 38 years old April 23 got pats on the back from all hands as the Braves whooped it up in their dressing room. First baseman Frank Torre said: "Spahn 'Fantastic'."

"That Spahn is fantastic. Now he's developed some new pitches. Well, let me tell you Spahn is a perfectionist. He uses his head as well as his arm."

20,988 See Giants Outlast Cardinals

Robin Roberts Pitches Phillies To 2-1 Victory Over Redlegs

By the Associated Press This may be a brand new season in the National league, but it was the same old established stars who did the work in the openers—guys like Milwaukee's Warren Spahn and Eddie Mathews and the dueling Robin Roberts and Don Newcombe.

The lone exception was rookie George Anderson of the Philadelphia Phils who made his first major league hit a game-winning single in the eighth inning giving Roberts a 2-1 decision over Cincinnati and "Newk." Friday night Robin gave up five hits, Newcombe four as 22,189 fans braved an early evening rain and low temperatures at Philadelphia.

Spoil Hemus' Debut Earlier Spahnne hung up his forty-fourth shutout, blanking the Pirates 8-0, after Mathews had started things with a 2-run homer off Buc ace Bob Friend before a Pittsburgh crowd of 33,317, the NL's largest.

San Francisco's hopeful Giants outlasted the Cardinals, 6-3, spoiling Solly Hemus' debut as Redbird manager, with 20,988 in the stands at St. Louis as Friday night.

Snow at Chicago forced postponement of Los Angeles' opener against the Cubs and left the NL with a 3-game attendance of 76,494. The American league, playing only two games, drew 60,962, for a joint total of 137,456.

Roberts and Newk, old hands at opening-game duels, battled through five hitless innings. Then, after Newcombe singled for the Reds' first hit in the sixth, Roberts ruined Newk's shutout bid in the bottom of the inning with a double that scored Chico Fernandez, who had singled for the Phils' first safety.

A walk and Jim Hegan's single set up Anderson's clinching single in the eighth. The Giants three times blew leads before a ninth-inning double by Jackie Brandt, the former Card put it away. Al Worthington mopped up in the ninth to save the victory for southpaw starter Johnny Antonelli.

Mathews Hits Homer In Opener

Pittsburgh — (U) — The Milwaukee Braves came up Friday with pitching and power, the twin keys to a pennant last year, and blasted the Pittsburgh Pirates, 8-0, in their opening National league game.

Veteran Warren Spahn, a 22-game winner last year, earned the shutout by methodically stuffing the Pirate attack and was in trouble in only one inning the third. He struck out six men and walked only two.

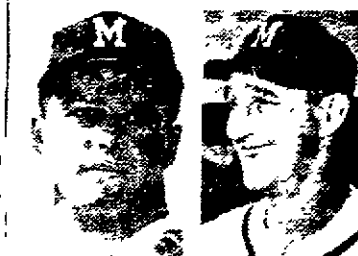

Breaks Deadlock Eddie Mathews, Hank Aaron and Billy Bruton contributed the power. Eddie boomed a solid homer for two runs that broke a scoreless deadlock in the sixth and Bruton and Aaron contributed three hits each, Aaron getting two doubles.

After Mathews homered, the Braves added two more in the seventh and four in a long eighth inning rally.

After Spahn ended the Pirate threat in the third inning by fanning Billy Mazaroski, he had little rest of the way. Two lefthanded batters, Bill Virdon and Bob Skinner, were in the Pirate starting lineup and both struck out twice. Spahn also faced a southpaw pinchhitter, big Ted Kluszewski who got to first on a walk. Last year Spahn had, strangely enough, more trouble at times with lefthanders than righthanded batters.

It was a sad day for the pennant-hungry Pittsburgh crowd of 33,317. Cheered by the Bucs' second place finish last year, they have been rooting for a winner. Today's defeat was an unhappy addition to the opening game lost, 4-1, to Cincinnati Thursday.

Effective Until 6th Bob Friend started for the Pirates and was effective until the sixth when Bill Bruton singled and Mathews unloaded his home run. Friend yielded two more runs in the seventh.

Mathews Spahn enth on a clutch single by Bruton and then gave way to a pinchhitter. Don Gross and Bob Porterfield finished the game.

Felix Mantilla, who started at second base in place of the ailing and absent "Red" Schoendienst, looked impressive. He turned in several fine fielding plays, stole a Beaumont, Tex. — (U) — Louise Suggs, the defending champion from Sea Island, Ga., held a 2-stroke lead going into the second round of the $6,000 Babe Zaharias Open Golf tournament today.

She shot a 4-under-par 69 Friday over the 6,219-yard Beaumont Country club course.

Glenn Bestor, former University of Wisconsin football player, filed a $100,000 suit in U.S. district court Friday in connection with injuries he received in an auto accident.

Bestor, who lives here, is suing Irving J. Biba Jr., Chicago, Ill.; Silas H. Calkins, Humboldt, Clark County; and their insurers.

Calkins and Biba were driving cars involved in the accident Nov. 2 near Edgerton. It resulted in the death of two hockey players.

The complaint filed with the court claims Bestor suffered neck, eye, wrist and knee injuries which prevent him from continuing his career as a physical education instructor. He was a member of the Rockton, Ill., Cardinals hockey team at the time of the accident.

Bestor saw action as a fullback on the 1956 Badger team.

Erickson 'Fresh' After 50,000-Mile Cage Tour

BY JOHN L. PAUSTIAN You'd think that anyone who had traveled the equivalent of twice around the world and played 5,000 minutes of basketball in the last 4 months would seek out the nearest easy chair and recoup his energy.

Not Monasha's Bob Erickson. The dynamic young athlete, who has just completed a 50,000-mile professional basketball tour, says he's as fresh as the day he left (Nov. 22) and can't wait to get on the tennis courts.

His weight? It's exactly the same 169 as it was when he began the demanding racket.

Erickson, a former Monasha High and area amateur star played for the Boston Shamrocks, the team of the Marquette Haynes' Harlem Magicians.

The hardwood tour played 149 games—several times as many as in a week—in 35 states. Though they traveled in cars—except for one emergency ride in a commercial bus—and their

MU Returns Grid Games to Its Own Stadium

Milwaukee — (U) — Athletic Director Larry Mullins said Friday that Marquette University football games will be returned this fall to its own stadium after having been played in County stadium for the past two years.

County stadium was an ideal place to play football, Mullins said. The only missing ingredient was that we didn't win. I hope the future will find us successful enough that we'll find it necessary to play in County stadium to accommodate the crowds.

Bob Erickson Completes Lengthy Tour

erary was exhaustive, they never missed an engagement. Late? Yes, two or three times—due to mechanical difficulties.

The longest 1-day hop was 700 miles to Griggs, Okla., Erickson recalls. They finished one engagement at 10 one night and were due in Griggs at 8 the next night.

"It wasn't as bad sleeping in station wagons as I thought," says Erickson. Improves Basketball

The farthest apart dates they kept were from Clovis, N. M., to San Diego, Calif.,—about 1,000 miles. However, the teams had two days to make it.

Bob says it was a worthwhile experience from at least four standpoints: he improved his basketball; he had fun and he saw more of the country than he could have seen in any other way.

Making special impressions on the Menasha were visits to New York (four of them), Las Vegas and Boston. Twice, his group played the first half of a Boston garden double-header, as about 9,000 looked on. The Celtics played pro league games to cap the twin bills. Of all the NBA players he saw, Erickson was most impressed by Celtic whiz Bob Cousy.

The biggest crowd the barnstormers attracted in a college or high school gym was 5,500 at Tennessee State. The average crowd was between 1,500 and 2,000, according to Erickson.

Gets 34 Points
Erickson averaged 15-16 points a game on the tour. His best night was a 34-point effort at famous Hannibal, Mo. That night, Bob sank his first seven shots and hit 11 of 14 in the first half.

One of his biggest thrills was a dribbling exhibition he gave in Plymouth, Mich. Since Haynes, the usual "dribble expert" was not on contests have been slated thus far by league teams but more the OK to try it in the fourth quarter, against a local team. He kept the ball away from down on lettermen follows:

Amherst — Coach Welton
Since the Shamrocks had few substitutes, Erickson played all the way in practically every game. He estimates he missed a total of only 80 minutes in the 140 games.

The only time Erickson left the tour was in February when it went south. Many southern communities prohibit whites and colored players from playing in the same game. Erickson and an Iowan (John Macreavy) were the only regular white players on the tour.

Erickson hasn't made up his mind whether he'll make the tour next season. It depends on what kind of a job he has by that time and also on the status of the touring group. Many of the regulars are getting along in years and might give it up any time, he reports.

Metz Shares Golf Lead With 2 Youths
Lake Charles, La. —P— Sooner or later, youth will be served, and you couldn't find a better example today than in the $5,000 Lake Charles Invitational Golf tournament where veteran Dick Metz had his hands full with two young rivals.

As the third round of the 72-hole tournament opened today, the 30-year-old Metz shared first place with 22-year-old Hugh Royer at 137. Only one stroke behind was Mason Rudolph, 24-year-old former Walker cup team star from Clarksville, Tenn.

Royer, a Columbus, Ga., native making his first start as a pro, fired a 3-under-par 69 Friday over the soggy 6,500-yard Lake Charles Golf and Country club course.

Metz, runnerup in the 1938 National Open, slipped to a 70 Friday after his opening round of 67.

Two of the Central Wisconsin conference's four 1958 co-champions, Amherst and Bonduel, meet in one of Tuesday afternoon's conference openers.

In other contests, co-champion Marion welcomes Weyauwega, co-titleist Iola is at Wittenberg and Waupaca visits Menasha.

The first conference club to see 1959 action is Waupaca, which was to visit Menasha today for a non-league tilt. Circuit teams will once more play a 5-game league schedule on Tuesdays through May 12.

Only five non-conference games have been slated thus far by league teams but more the OK to try it in the fourth quarter, against a local team. He kept the ball away from down on lettermen follows:

Modesto, Calif. —P— Frank Philbrick is slowing down. Five years ago, he was bowling over 100 games a week in six leagues.

Frank now is down to 70 games a week and averaging better than 160 in four leagues. Not bad, though, for a man of 84.

He took up bowling when he retired from farming 20 years ago. Says the sport keeps him healthy.

Fox' First Homer In 2 Seasons Wins For White Sox

Nellie's 2-Run Blast Ends 4:25 Marathon; Indians Triumph

By The Associated Press

Chicago —P— It didn't go according to plan, but the Chicago White Sox won their American league opener by beating the Detroit Tigers, 9-7, in 14 innings Friday.

They didn't get the pitching they expected from Billy Pierce. They clobbered Jim Bunning, who beat them four times last year, and last but not least the game-winning blow was a home run by Nellie Fox.

No Homer in '58

Yes, Nellie Fox, the little second sacker who didn't hit a home run all last year and who had a total of 25 in 1,454 games previous to his 2-run blast against the Tigers.

In the only other American league game played, Cleveland downed the A's, 6-1, at Kansas City. The score was pleasant enough for Manager Joe Gordon, but the Score (Herb, that is) didn't make him to happy.

Fox tore into Detroit pitching for five hits in seven-at-bats. The 2-run, 2-out homer that ended the 4-hour, 25-minute struggle was his first in 671 trips since Sept. 19, 1957.

Pierce wasn't his usual self. He went into the bottom of the fifth with a 3-1 lead and retired after the Tigers picked up three more runs in the fifth for a 4-3 lead. The Sox went ahead when they scored four runs in the seventh—three coming in on Larry Doby's error of Billy Goodman's fly ball with the bases loaded.

Detroit's Charley Maxwell tied it up with a 3-run pinch homer in the eighth and that was the story until Fox' homer. Gerry Staley pitched magnificently in relief to gain credit for the victory. His big test came in the tenth when Detroit loaded the bases with none out and failed to score.

Landis Drives in 2
Jim Landis drove in a pair of runs with a homer and Pierce sent one home in the fourth inning when he grounded out.

What hopes the Indians have of going any place but down from last year's fourth-place finish in the pennant race are based on a comeback by the 25-year-old Score. Since winning 20 games as a sophomore in 1956, Score has a 4-4 record, missing most of '57 after his eye injury, and out most of last season because of arm trouble.

Friday, after a slow pace in spring training, Score was waved in from the bullpen when the A's got to starter Gary Bell for their third run in the ninth. With Score pitching, the A's scored again without swinging a bat. He walked the first man he faced on four pitches, wild pitched a run home and walked the second batter. He was 2-0 and against the third man before Dick Brodowski replaced him and put it away.

A topcoat crowd of 22,630 showed up at Kansas City with 33,332 sitting in at Detroit.

Bel, was backed by an 11-hit attack against loser Bob Grim and relievers Ray Herbert and Russ Meyer. George Strickland, out of baseball for a year, had three hits and drove in two runs for the Indians.

The Boston - at - New York game was rained out. Baltimore and Washington weren't scheduled.

The Thrill of Re-Entry Into Baseball Keeps Veeck Warm

Detroit —P— The near-332 in the stands without freezing cold didn't bother some protection against the numbing chill. "I'm nervous. I'm always nervous at a game."

Veeck, attired in a blue summer suit and his customary open-throated sport shirt, sat through 4 hours and 25 minutes of baseball. His lean him a topcoat in Briggs Sox finally won a 14-inning stadium's 37-degree weather marathon. 9-7, over the Detroit. It was his active re-entry into baseball's official family as majority stockholder-Chicago dugout. Veeck clapped of the Chicago White Sox, ped his hands, bantered with "No, I'm not cold," said fans around him, cheered the Veeck, the only person of 38. Sox.

ND Has Largest Spring Grid Turnout Since World War II

By Charles Chamberlain

South Bend, Ind. —P— Notre Dame's new head football coach, Joe Kuharich, is looking over the players he's got in spring drills and wondering about the players he hopes to get as freshmen when school starts next fall.

"We will give out only about 23 scholarships at most," Kuharich said in an interview. "I think that will be enough. It means, however, that the 28 kids who get them must be exceptional academically as well as athletically."

100 Prep Prospects
"My assistant coaches have looked at films of at least 100 high school prospects in the last several months. When an alumni tells us there is a good prospect at such and such a high school, we write the coach about him and ask for movies of games he played. If we like what we see, and academically he is sound, we mark him down as a probability."

Kuharich greeted some 120 hopefuls, largest turnout since World War II. Although the enthusiasm is there, Kuharich may have to dig to find enough talent to field two teams of near equal ability, only 13 lettermen from last year are back, and that's the smallest group of returnees in 15 years.

There are 50 freshmen who will be sophomores in the fall and they are considered at this time to be only so-so. There are no outstanding prospects among the rookies.

"My main problem is finding two tackles and a full-back," said Kuharich.

Burton was the Big Ten scoring king for 1958-9. He broke the Maize and Blue 1-season scoring record held by Green Bay Packer football star, Ron Kramer.

Burton tallied 460 points last winter to top Kramer's 1955 mark of 450 points. For his 3-year career, Burton finished just 11 points behind Kramer's record 1,123 points.

Burton was drafted by the Detroit Pistons but will probably pass up the play-for-pay boys to enter Michigan's medical school next fall.

Hawkins and Burton join the Green Bay Packers as opponents for 7-2 Wilt "The Stilt" Chamberlain. "Meadowlark" Lemon and Trotter stars from all Trotter units.

ference competition, the MG has divided—for baseball purposes—into two divisions of five teams each.

Division Makeup

In the Northern division are Beloit, Lawrence, Ripon, Carleton and St. Olaf. Southern division teams are Coe, Cornell, Grinnell, Knox and Monmouth. The divisional winners will play a 3-game series at Cedar Rapids May 15-16 to decide the championship. Coe is defending titlist.

Returning Lawrence letter-winners are Karl Franke, and Mike Gilboy, pitcher-infielders; Ken Haeblerle, first baseman - outfielder; Charles Scruggs and Don Schildt, outfielders; Rick Ramsey, second baseman; and Harry Hartoonian, shortstop. All are juniors.

No Seniors
There are no seniors on the team. Gone from the 1958 club are: pitcher - outfielder Bert Elliott, pitcher-catcher Bill Wood, first baseman Don Wolf and center fielder Joe Quick.

Franke and Gilboy—both righthanders—had some pitching experience last summer but neither was particularly impressive. Gilboy, especially, seems to have improved. Dyer and Larson, both southpaws, add depth. Franke's main trouble is lack of a college-caliber curve ball.

Boya's starting lineup Wednesday may look something like this: Gilboy, third base; Hartoonian, shortstop; Ramsey, second base; Haeblerle, Hackworthy or Larson, first base; Berman, catching; Scruggs or Gellendin, left field; Schulze, center field; Schildt, right field, and either Dyer or Franke pitching.

Wallace Carroll, Washington editor for the New York Times, combined business with pleasure when he came to the Lawrence college campus to speak before the student body and visit his daughter Margaret, a sophomore.

Washington Less Colorful, Editor Claims

No In-Fighting Now, Lawrence Student Body Told

"Washington is not quite as colorful a city as it was 20 years ago. There is a certain amount of togetherness in this administration; there is not the old in-fighting that used to enliven the place under previous presidents," newsman Wallace Carroll, Washington editor for the New York Times, told Lawrence college students.

Carroll, for many years a European correspondent for the United Press and winner of an award for his coverage of the Russian front during the early days of World War II, was in Appleton to visit his daughter Margaret, a sophomore at Lawrence, as well as for his talk.

Describing the mechanics and color of the weekly press conference at which President Eisenhower faces 300 journalists, he said, "There are some men who regularly ask very sharp, very difficult questions. Eisenhower never dodges them."

Ike Syntax Bad

"However, it is said among newsmen that Eisenhower could lick the Germans, but he couldn't lick syntax. Once a reporter is out from the spell of his personality, he finds it very hard to write a news story on the basis of what the president has said."

In the English and French parliamentary systems, the head of state frequently has to go before the law-making body to answer questions. Since this is not true in America, the press conference fills the same role. The press is well aware of its responsibility to make the American public an enlightened public, Carroll said.

This is what the working press thinks of some of today's public figures:

Press Sec. James Hagerty—"a very powerful, very efficient man; he's closed up all the rat holes around the White House as far as news leaks are concerned."

Pres Eisenhower—"The official family cultivates the impression that the president is a very hard working man. Reporters and Democrats are inclined to feel that he hasn't taken hold of the job as he should. Certainly his two predecessors spent more time in their offices."

Richard Nixon—Sec. of State Dulles—"He thinks well on his feet, is a master of the English language, and says no more or no less than he means. His great strength as secretary is his legal training, but it is also his weakness, for no one can stand up to him in an argument. He is a 1-man state department."

Vice Pres. Nixon—"Even

his critics say he does his homework and really works hard to inform himself on special problems. The thorough preparation done for his southeast Asia trip made quite a favorable impression in those countries."

Lyndon Johnson—"Every body in Washington talks about Lyndon. His critics think he is vain and arrogant; yet they feel he's the ablest politician in America today. He is a compulsive talker."

Sam Rayburn—"Every day six men gather with 'Mr. Sam' in his dingy office. They are called Sam Rayburn's Board of Education. When they decide what legislation should go through, it goes through."

Presidential hopefuls Of Democratic aspirants for chief executive—"There are a lot of good vice presidential candidates in the

Sen. Kennedy—"A scholarly approach."

Sen. Humphrey—"Intellectual brilliance, but he speaks too much and too often."

Sen. Symington—"if the convention should be deadlocked, lightning might strike him."

The Great Days of The Overland Stage

BY W. EUGENE HOLLOW

For a town which had been surveyed only a few months earlier, Tipton, Mo., began life with a creditable little bang on Oct. 9, 1858. That was the day the first overland mail stage arrived, 23 days and 4 hours out of San Francisco — a day that marked the beginning of regular mail service across the continent. Tipton was 160 miles west of St. Louis at the end of the Missouri Pacific railroad, and from this tiny dot on the map, mail and passengers from the west were put aboard the trains to St. Louis, Cincinnati, and New York, completing a transcontinental journey in approximately four weeks. What had once been a fantastic dream was now a reality.

The man who made much of this possible was John Butterfield, a gentleman of 57 years, comfortable fortune, and enormous energies. A broad-shouldered man with prominent nose, heavy brows, and dark hair, he left his mark on the west's costumes as well as its transportation. For years stores in that area sold long yellow linen dusters, high leather boots, and flat-crowned "wide-awake" hats patterned after those that Butterfield wore.

The Mail a Must

Actually, it was the contract John Butterfield and his New York associates made with the post office department that made possible the first semi-weekly mail service to and from California. When Butterfield guaranteed to deliver the mail between St. Louis and San Francisco in 25 days or less, he was awarded a $600,000 annual post office subsidy.

The discovery of gold brought a virtual flood of settlers to California, and before long the people of the newly admitted state demanded faster and cheaper overland mail service.

The route approved was a compromise. Starting at St. Louis and proceeding west on the railroad to Tipton, Mo., it ran southwest to Springfield, Mo., and Fort Smith, Ark., then to El Paso. Passing through Tucson, it went on to San Francisco via Los Angeles.

On Sept. 16, 1857, the contract was signed, and exactly one year later stages left simultaneously from Tipton, headed west, and from San Francisco, headed east.

Southern Route

Operating regularly until the southern route was abandoned at the outbreak of the Civil war, the Butterfield stages nearly always completed the journey within the stipulated time.

At first John Butterfield's company carried letter mail exclusively, but newspapers and small packages were transported later. A strict rule prevented shipments of gold or silver, thus practical-

Before the railroads, let alone airplanes, started crisscrossing the country, the Overland Stage was delivering mail on schedule between St. Louis and San Francisco. Its brief, glorious hour is well described here by a University of Oklahoma professor and native Texan who has specialized in southwestern history.

By eliminating holdups by highwaymen: On only one occasion was there any interference by the Indians.

From the outset, passenger service was available; but few people took advantage of the opportunity until the coaches had been in operation for several months. Twenty-five days of constant jolting over was board roads, mudholes, deserts and swollen streams were not likely to be anticipated pleasantly by even the most experienced traveler, and the available food was something to curdle a goat's stomach.

10 Cents Per Mile

From St. Louis to San Francisco, the fare was $200. Local or wayfare was 10 cents per mile for the distance traveled. Passengers were allowed 40 pounds of luggage — the same, incidentally, as that allowed by modern airline companies. But food, such as it was, came out of the traveler's own pocketbook.

Generally it consisted of bacon, beans, bread, onions and what passed for coffee. In addition, some writers referred to a strange and mysterious concoction known as slumgullion. Mark Twain described this drink as "a pretense of tea, but there was too much sand and old bacon rind in it to deceive the intelligent traveler."

After the contract was awarded, the Butterfield company had a tremendous task ahead of it. The route had to be surveyed, roads built or improved, grades leveled, ferries and bridges constructed, wells dug, and the stations erected. Butterfield personally inspected much of the route, while 1,800 horses and mules were purchased, test runs made, a regular schedule planned, and forage and food deposited. Orders were placed for 250 regular coaches, special mail wagons, water wagons, harness sets, and accessories.

These preliminary expenses alone amounted to nearly a million dollars, and a thousand or more employees were hired before the start of the first mail.

The Equipment

Two types of coaches were used, the Concord coach made at Concord, N. H., and the "celerity" wagon manufactured at Troy, N. Y. The former, a regular full-bodied coach, weighed 3,000 pounds, cost approximately $1,400, and could accommodate 6 to 9 passengers inside and an unlimited number on top. These stages were made of the finest white ash, oak, elm, and prime basswood.

They were painted in bright colors, usually red, green, or canary yellow. The wheels were heavy, with broad iron tires that would not sink in soft sand, and set wide enough apart — five feet two inches — to keep the coach from tipping. The body, reinforced with iron, was swung on leather straps or thorough braces stitched 31 inches wide. The cab rocked back and forth as the coach bowed forward, the thorough braces serving as shock absorbers. On the rougher sections of the road, passengers and mail were shifted to the specially built celerity wagons.

Their speed varied from four miles in rough country to spurts of 12 miles per hour over level stretches of prairies or down long straight slopes. The drivers were proud of the time they made, and a New York Herald reporter wrote feelingly of "bouncing" — now on the hard seat, now against the roof, and now against the side.

120 Miles Per Day

Each driver drove a 60-mile run, stopped for a few hours' rest before taking the next opposite-bound coach back over the same stretch of road.

Except for meal stops twice each day, the coaches lingered only ten minutes at each station to obtain a fresh relay of horses or mules and to pick up and discharge mail sacks. The conductor sounded a bugle two or three miles from the station, announcing the coach's arrival, so that everything was in readiness for a quick change. In 24 hours the stage covered approximately 120 miles, and after the first three or four days the passengers became inured to the discomfort of the hard seat, jolting road and insufferable dust.

10 Minutes at a Stop

There is a record of only one attack by Indians which halted the mail along the southern route. It happened at Apache Pass, or Puerto del Dado, Ariz., early in February, 1861. At nearby Fort Buchanan, the commander had received word that Apaches had raided a beef contractor's cattle and had also abducted a young boy. Lt. George Bascom and 60 men of the 7th Infantry were sent in pursuit, and in the Dragoon Mountains met Chief Cochise of the Chiricahau tribe, who insisted his tribe did not have the boy. Apparently Bascom did not believe the chief, and there was a brief fracas in which one Indian was killed and four taken prisoner.

Plan Mass Attack

After Bascom and his men went on to Apache Pass, the Indians on Feb. 5 planned a mass attack on the station. The Butterfield mail from the east was due the next evening; but luckily it arrived two hours early, left shortly after changing teams, and reached the west end of the pass while it was still light. Here dried grass was piled in heaps across the road to form a fire ambush. The Butterfield men cleared the road and proceeded for another half mile when they came on what was left of an emigrant train. Amid the smoldering embers of the wagons were the mutilated bodies of the victims. Eight of them, who had not been fortunate enough to be shot, had been chained to the wagon wheels and burned alive.

both types were lined with russet leather, with cushions of the same material. Illumination was furnished by wire-pattern candle lamps.

Eventually, nearly 200 stations were erected along the routes. The stations were built of log, adobe, or stone, depending upon the locality. Because of the constant danger, Texas and Arizona stations were fort-like stone and adobe structures. Four or five well-armed men tended each station, but in Indian country the personnel might be increased to as many as eight or ten.

The vehicles were pulled by four to six horses or mules and rolled day and night.

Their speed varied from four miles in rough country to spurts of 12 miles per hour over level stretches of prairies or down long straight slopes. The drivers were proud of the time they made, and a New York Herald reporter wrote feelingly of "bouncing" — now on the hard seat, now against the roof, and now against the side.

By this time it was too dark to go back through the dangerous pass to inform the station about the massacre, so the stage pushed on to the west. About halfway to the next station, they met the eastbound stage and warned them of what lay ahead. Aboard were nine passengers, including a superintendent inspecting the line; the conductor, A. B. Culver, brother of the station keeper at Apache Pass; and the driver. All were armed, and they decided to risk an attack and proceed. Entering the pass after dark, the driver whipped the mules to greater speed, and as the stage clattered down the eastern grade shots rang out from ambush. Two mules went down, and the driver was wounded, but the passengers kept up a steady fire in the direction of the shots while the superintendent and Culver cut the two mules out of the traces. With the animals that remained, they fought their way to Apache Pass Station, where they spent the night.

Knowing they were outnumbered by at least five to one, the station agent, C. W. Culver, decided to make terms with the enemy. Next morning he and his helper Welch and the driver, J. F. Wallace, went out of the little fort under a flag of truce. The Indians rushed them, capturing Wallace. The other two men turned and ran; Welch was shot down, but Culver, although badly wounded, made it to the station. Several days later Wallace's body and the corpses of five prisoners from the luckless wagon train were found staked out on the plains west of the pass, half-eaten by vultures and coyotes.

Route Discontinued

After John Butterfield stepped down as president of the Overland Stage company in 1860, the morale and discipline of the employees declined. On March 12, 1861, congress ordered the route discontinued and the service transferred to the central section of the country via South Pass and Salt Lake City.

After being practically abandoned for a quarter of a century, the southern overland road laid out by John Butterfield soon became crisscrossed and paralleled by highways, railroads, and airlines. Trains take on water today from wells dug by Butterfield men. Even now the best all-weather highway from St. Louis to San Francisco approximates the thin line across prairies and mountain passes over which the Butterfield stages "flew" a century ago. (Copyright, 1959) Distributed by AP Newsfeatures

Two Hundred Way Stations dotted the Overland Mail's 2,800-mile route from St. Louis to San Francisco. It was dubbed the "oxbow" because John Butterfield chose this safer, roundabout southern route rather than a more direct one.

Law May Ease Retirement For Guards

Others Employed at Correctional Units Would be Affected

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Guards and others employed at three state correctional institutions have a good chance to win more generous retirement rights by action of the present legislature.

A survey committee on retirement policy which advises the legislature has urged approval of legislation to permit earlier retirement for such employees of the state reformatory near Green Bay, University of Wisconsin police officers, guards at the state penitentiary and the state hospital for the insane at Wauwaton, numbering 35 in total.

The proposal is for a permissive retirement with full pension at the age of 60 instead of 65. In exchange, they would pay into the retirement fund at the rate of seven percent of their earnings, instead of the usual five percent.

Such special retirement

Disney Purchases Site of Gold Strike in 1842

Hollywood — P — The site of California's first recorded gold strike has been purchased by Walt Disney, a fellow who has struck a little gold in these parts himself.

Disney productions announced yesterday that it has acquired the historic Golden Oak ranch for $200,000. The studio said this is related to be more money than was realized from all the gold found there after the strike was made in 1842.

Disney will use the site as a movie location and a ranch for polo games and thoroughbred racing. The ranch is north of Los Angeles, near Newhall.

Terms have been provided for other groups of public employees including law enforcement officers of the state and local governments, and firemen in localities.

They are given the special privilege because it has been recognized that they are disqualified for work in such protective services at an earlier age, but in turn they must contribute at a higher rate to the pension reserves during a shorter working period.

Lover of Trees Halts Widening of Street

Mrs. T. L. Williams, 845 E. College avenue, loves a tree. When workmen on the state's College avenue bridge project today began cutting down a tree in front of her home, she went into action.

She cannot recall exactly what she said to the workman, but he went away and Mayor Mitchell later told her the man is afraid to return.

The tree, she said she was told, is being removed to widen the Raritan street intersection at College avenue, part of the high bridge project.

Why? She Asks

Her corner, she explained, is the southwest one and Rankin street along side her home isn't even paved for this reason, she said, she cannot understand why the corner must be widened on her side of the street.

Mayor Mitchell told her, she reported, that the tree will stand at least until the matter is taken up with the council's street committee at its 2 p. m. Monday meeting.

The tree is in the 96-foot right-of-way for College avenue, and while the land is technically the city's, Mrs. Williams said a tree's a tree she has to see any of them cut down N. Richmond street, scene of widening last summer, she claimed, looks awful.

At Least Two Establish Park Areas, Menasha Town Residents Request Board

Menasha — Establishment of park areas was urged by town of Menasha residents at the annual town meeting.

Other discussion at the town meeting, centered around the roads, sewage, officials' pay, regional planning and liquor and beer licenses.

The town board, at the citizens' request, will act to secure land on both sides of Little Lake Butte des Morts to serve both major areas of the town.

Retiring Town Chairman Oliver Jacobsen asked all town residents who have ideas on the park situation to contact the park commission and offer their ideas for action. Jacobsen added that more than one park and recreation area should be set up for the town because of its peculiar geography.

"Mistake"

Frank Orbison, park commission secretary, answered one resident's question on the lack of a park budget that it would be a mistake to authorize a budget, because then you advertise how much money the town has to spend. The property owners will know how much they can ask for their land."

Orbison said it would be better to have both park board and town board make negotiations jointly for park sites. Jacobsen reminded the town residents some park sites of-fered were "too high-priced and too wet."

A motion to have the town take over a road in the Roy Zeh plat and pay for it by special assessments against abutting landowners was laid over for action by the new board, which took office Wednesday after being sworn in and examined.

John Murphy reminded the

EUB Church To Confirm 9 Students

Neenah — Nine students will receive the rite of confirmation at the 10:30 a.m. Sunday service at First Evangelical United Brethren church. One week later, they will become registered and communicant members of the congregation.

Members of the class include Tom Babbitt, George Bauman, Dennis Doverspike, Donald Lamb, James Reinorize, Steven Schultz, Karen Weber, Carol Westergard and C. F. Wismer. Dr. William C. F. Hayes is one of the three co-authors of the authorized text book used in this field throughout the Evangelical United Brethren church. The Rev. Edward B. Meyer, missionary to British Guiana, will be guest speaker at the 9 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. Sunday services at St. Timothy Lutheran church. The Rev. Mr. Meyer will be the main speaker at take over a road in the Roy Zeh plat and pay for it by special assessments against abutting landowners was laid over for action by the new board, which took office Wednesday after being sworn in and examined.

John Murphy reminded the installed in all but the "Devil's Bend curve" areas (immediately east of Menasha city limits on Highway 114). This last was held up because of a planned repaving of the road.

Jacobsen explained that the town was somewhat better off hiring Winnebago county and Badger Highways, Inc., trucks for snow removal.

Town ownership of a plow-equipped truck, the board feels, would be economically unfeasible at this time.

Jacobsen said the town now has 10 to 15 rolls of snow fence for sale at $3 a roll. The town is not using it any more, and he cited the amount of time required to set up this fencing.

Street lights will be installed this year on the Highway 47 and Airport road intersection. Jacobsen promised. He said the lights had been planned for installation there last year.

Speed Limits

The board will study setting speed limits on Midway road between Highways 47 and 114.

Big Money for Champs In Television Sports

Bowler Dick Hoover Grabs $15,000 In Two Weeks; Snead Takes $28,000

BY JINGO

Bowler Dick Hoover and Golfer Sam Snead have tapped television for some interesting money this season.

Hoover last week on "Phillies Jackpot Bowling" arced six straight balls in the pocket to grab the jackpot of $12,000 and send his 2-week earnings to $15,000. He was back Friday night for some more.

Snead walked off with all the honors and $28,000 in prize money on "All-Star Golf" this season and will be back next season to attempt a repeat.

Last year, Golfer Billy Casper won $12,500 in the same golfing series.

A champion's take in the world of television sports is enough to send every able bodied fan who can walk into concentrated practice.

In recent weeks, the annual spring rush of complaints to police on window peepers, strangers approaching children and similar incidents has begun. In two cases, police caught the offender.

However, Heinzlitz cautioned, it is potentially dangerous for any child to talk to a stranger, since police cannot catch all offenders and such offenders often leave their home areas to commit the offenses.

Not every stranger is, of course, dangerous, Heinzlitz commented, but parents should warn their children that sometimes people they do not know can be harmful to them.

Sales Tax Preferred

The 20-member state legislative committee of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce opposed Gov. Gaylord A. Nelson's income tax withholding bill at its Friday meeting at Appleton Vocational school.

Indirect Tax

A dispute has arisen between Blue Cross (the hospital home pay is what counts) and Blue Shield workers and the individual (medical doctors) plan or Wisconsin would not be conscious of tax-consin (Physicians Service), as he is paying under the pro-posed plan.

The committee heard a report prepared by Carl Ber-ram, director of the Appleton Vocational school, on the bill, said preventing Blue Shield from selling hospitalization coverage was in the new sources for tax revenue fit a specific group and that and the state committee rec-a little competition wouldn't ommended an increase in in-dividual income taxes by add-ing 1 per cent to the percent-age in each bracket, eliminat-ing of surtax, sales tax of 2 Cross and feel that "Blue per cent on sales at retail of Cross shouldn't be allowed to all articles, with sales tax re-venue to be set aside for ele-mentary and secondary school aids through increased for-mulas.

The committee opposed a limitation to six years (now 10) for additional assessments bill that would prevent state of state income tax where a or county medical society taxpayer fails to report an health insurance plans from amount in excess of 25 per cent including hospitalization cov-erage.

The bill was reviewed by E. R. At the present time, Blue/Boen.

Navigation To Open Soon At Green Bay

Icebreaker Aids Tanker Through Ice to Harbor

Green Bay — Opening of navigation on the Green Bay harbor sometime today seemed likely this morning, with the coast guard icebreaker Mackinaw five miles south of Green Island at 8 a.m. The island is just north of Sturgeon Bay.

The Mackinaw is breaking ice three and more feet thick for the 290-foot tanker Pleiades, expected at the Phillips Petroleum and Cities Service Oil company docks here.

The tanker is loaded with 40,000 barrels of gasoline and fuel oil.

Cities Service had a report this morning the Pleiades had become stuck probably near Green Island, but company officials said they believed the Mackinaw would turn back to free it.

The Mackinaw had difficulty turning around in the Escanaba harbor Friday, where it started its ice breaking operations. It broke ice there for two ore boats.

After the Mackinaw leaves the Green Bay harbor entrance the task of keeping the water open will be left to the cutter Sundew, out of Sturgeon Bay.

Stolen $3,000 Ruled Partial House Price

Loss From Broker's Theft Falls on Couple Selling Home

A $3,000 down payment stolen by a real estate broker can be deducted from a home price, Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmieghe has ruled.

The money, stolen by Merle E. Davidson, now in Waupun prison, was paid the broker by Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth H. Van Dyke as earnest money against an $11,500 purchase of their present home at 3304 E. Wisconsin road.

Davidson, representing Mr. and Mrs. Harold H. Lauer,

Tavernkeeper Fined $600 in Death of Man

Judge Says Patron Partly Responsible For Fight Last May

Green Bay — Clarence (Breezy) Dombrowski, Main street tavernkeeper, was fined $600 in municipal court after having been previously convicted of homicide by reckless conduct in the death last June 1 of Cyril Le Gros. Le Gros, 40, died after an altercation with Dombrowski the night of May 26.

Dombrowski was originally charged with manslaughter but the charge was subsequently amended to homicide by reckless conduct. He pleaded no contest when he was tried last Nov. 13. Judge Donald W. Gleason ordered a presentence investigation.

In summarizing testimony, Judge Gleason pointed out that the conduct of Le Gros in Dombrowski's tavern was such as to make him at least partly responsible for the fight that followed.

Gleason also decided that medical testimony at the trial left a reasonable doubt that injuries suffered by Le Gros were the sole cause of death. If competent medical authorities could not be certain of the cause of death the judge said, the court had to resolve the doubt in favor of the defendant.

State Accepts 20,000-Acre Wildlife Area

Madison — The conservation commission Friday accepted a 20,000-acre wildlife area from a Wisconsin Rapids Power company and named it the George W. Mead Wildlife area.

The area is made up of the Little Eau Pleine river bottoms in Marathon, Portage and Wood counties and will become the state's largest wildlife region.

It was given to the state by the Consolidated Water Power and Paper company.

The commission, in accepting the gift, said it already made plans for development of additional water impoundments, planting of game cover, establishment of refuges and improvement of feeding conditions. It is estimated that these items will cost around $150,000.

Up to now the state's largest wildlife region has been the 15,000-acre Crex Meadows in Burnett county.

About 65 students will take part.

The Red Cross says $27,510 has been tallied so far in the local drive.

Proxmire Closing Milwaukee Office

Washington — Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) said Thursday he was closing his office in Milwaukee because of the increasingly heavy load of legislative work and correspondence "has compelled us to concentrate all of our staff in order to get the job done in Washington."

His home secretary, Jerry Bruno, will be assigned to the Washington staff, Proxmire said.

Policeman Hospitalized

Appleton Police Sgt. Kenneth Van Heuklon, head of the juvenile aid bureau, Thursday was transferred from Theda Clark hospital to Appleton Memorial hospital.

Van Heuklon has been hospitalized for an operation on the nerves in an arm he injured at home.

Automatic Signal Asked for Ballard Road Crossing

A public hearing on automatic warning signals for the Ballard road-Chicago North Western railroad crossing has been asked of the public service commission by Outagamie county's highway committee.

Highway Commissioner Clarence Brownson also requested the city to petition the PSC, since the crossing is bounded on the north and west, south of the tracks, by Appleton.

The move for automatic signals was started by Coroner Bernard H. Kemps after a 17-year-old boy died March 9 when his car slid into a passenger train. The death was the second at the crossing in the last four years.

The crossing, main line of the North Western, is in a residential and industrial area. The road is County Trunk E, connecting Highway 96 and 41, and serves the Outagamie county airport.

At present it is marked by a warning sign only.

Little Chute Police End First Aid Class

Little Chute's auxiliary police class of 25 Thursday night completed Red Cross first aid training and received cards certifying graduation.

Thursday they will begin civil defense police training at 7 p. m. in the village hall under two state patrolmen.

Red Cross Sets Area Water Safety Meeting April 18

The Outagamie county Red Cross will be host to an area water safety meeting, with 17 chapters participating, from 12 to 4 p. m. on April 18. The program will include a discussion on developing swimming programs, a pool demonstration of the assembly line method of teaching swimming and a dry land boat demonstration.

James Coley, water safety chairman, is handling the arrangements and is contacting area water safety chairmen.
